Headline:
Cloudy for all with rain in the northwest.

Today:
A rather cloudy day with a risk of some outbreaks of heavy rain in the north and west. Remaining largely dry elsewhere, with some sunshine developing from the south this afternoon. Feeling mild with winds easing but remaining breezy. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
A wet evening for most, as outbreaks of patchy rain move southeastwards over the region. Rain eases overnight, leaving drier conditions and clear spells. Feeling mild with winds easing further. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Thursday:
After a cloudy start with lingering patchy rain in places, it will be a dry day with plenty of sunny spells. Mild, but colder than recently with overnight frost possible. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold and cloudy to start Friday, then dry with plenty of sunshine. Rather cloudy but largely dry this weekend, with sunny spells. Mild days but overnight frost and fog possible.
